SUSAN BATTLEY, PSYD, PHD, is an internationally recognized authority on strategic leader and board effectiveness. She is the founder and chief executive officer of BATTLEY Performance Consulting based in Metro New York.

For more than 25 years, Susan has helped world-class leaders, board directors and management teams execute brilliantly for maximum success in today's high-stakes business environment. Her clients include chief executives and corporate officers, board directors, Nobel laureates, association executives and public sector officials here and abroad.

Her articles have appeared in leading business and professional publications, including Leader to Leader, Leadership Excellence, Forbes, Fast Company, and The Oxford University Press Handbook of Lifelong Learning. She is a frequent commentator on leadership trends in the news media.

Susan is a Governance Fellow of the National Association of Corporate Directors and a member of the American Psychological Association, American College of Healthcare Executives, Society of Consulting Psychology and The Authors Guild. She is currently the Board Chair of the Smithsonian Libraries Advisory Board, and also served on the Board of Directors and Executive Committee of the Metropolitan Opera Guild.

Her book, Coached to Lead: How to Achieve Extraordinary Results with an Executive Coach (Wiley), was the first executive's guide to executive coaching. Soundview Executive Book Summaries hails her as a "wise guide to greater effectiveness."

She holds doctoral degrees in psychology (PsyD) from Long Island University and economic history (PhD with distinction) from Stony Brook University. She is a licensed psychologist in New York State.

Prior to starting her firm in 1998, Susan was a clinical associate professor in health care management and ombudsman at Stony Brook University.
